

AMERICAN Small Farm

Volume 15, Number 7

July 2006

CONTENTS

Features

What Is Your State Doing For Small Farms? 5

This month we are featuring the "Pelican State" Louisiana. This is the seventh state in our continuing project. Will your state be next?

Heat Stress Costs U.S. Livestock Producers Billions 8

Researchers have found that the best cooling system for dairy cows, in terms of net returns for most of the United States, is one with a combination of fans and a sprinkler system. For other animal classes, like beef cattle all current cooling systems have costs that exceed their benefits.

Most People Get Plenty Of Water 9

Although the "adequate intake" of water varies from person to person, almost all healthy people get enough from the water and other beverages they drink, as well as from water in foods.

Portable Sawmills Can Help With Clearing Storm-damaged Timber 10

Louisiana State University (LSU) AgCenter forester Brian Chandler says many people still need a way to cut and move timber that was damaged in last year's hurricanes.

Weekend Warrior Logging: Are you Being Safe? 11

One of the satisfactions of owning forest property is working outdoors to improve the health and value of your forest. This article suggests some questions you should be asking yourself to avoid accidents when cutting or moving trees on your property:

Are You Searching For New Sources Of Income For Your Farm? 12

Before undertaking new farm enterprises or making major changes to an existing business, you should set some well-defined farm goals. Those goals should go beyond profit objectives to include available resources as well as personal and family values.

Keep Repair Costs In-House By Doing Your Own Welding 14

For most small farmers, welding is a necessity. In fact, a welder helps to keep the farm running.

Small Sprayers For Small Farms 22

Sprayers come in many sizes with a variety of pumps and nozzles. This story has some ideas to help you with your selections.

Greenhouse Grower Section

Fine-Tuning Nursery And Greenhouse Plant Care 18

Since some scientists are saying that water may become as scarce as oil over the coming decades, nursery managers are among the growers most interested in ways to get by on less water. Researchers have developed an improved strategy for year-round monitoring of the plants' water and nutritional needs.

Ornamental Gingers As Potted Landscape Plants 21

Ornamental gingers encompass a diverse and versatile group of plants that are gaining increased popularity in the flowering pot plant, landscape and cut flower markets. They have showy and attractive foliage and flowers, which make them interesting ornamentals.

Columns & Departments

Small Farm Talk 3

Editor Andy Stevens often asked what kind of work he does. When he says he is the editor of "American Small Farm"

AMERICAN Small Farm

Editor: Andrew Stevens
Creative Director: Ryan Mumm
Circulation: Karen Fendrick

Londa Anklam, Herman Beck-Chenoweth, Don Comis, Maria del Pilar Paz, Martha Filipic, Fayrene Hamous, Alice Henneman, Caleb Krisher, Jeff S. Kuehny, Johnny Morgan, Candace Pollock, Bill Schaefer, Paul Schattenberg, Chris Schnepf and Brad Trom

Advertising: Marti Smith, Director;
Eric Kincaid, Account Manager
Leon Kincaid, Account Manager
Karen Fendrick, Sales Associate

Publisher: Farm & Ranch Publishing, LLC
Andy Stevens: Vice-President, Editor
Marti Smith: Vice-President, Advertising

Publishing Office: 560 Sunbury Road, Suite 6
Delaware, OH 43015
Phone: (740) 363-2395
FAX: (740) 369-9526

E-mail: info@smallfarm.com
Web site: <http://www.smallfarm.com>

American Small Farm
Magazine is proud to support FFA

Member of the North
American Farm Show
Council

magazine the person to whom he is speaking will say something to the effect that small farms are disappearing. Is that a true or false statement? Check it out.

Over The Fence 16

This column is a place for you to share and

About the cover

On July 4, 1776, we claimed our independence from Britain and Democracy was born. Every day thousands leave their homeland to come to the "land of the free and the home of the brave" so they can begin their American Dream. The United States is truly a diverse nation made up of dynamic people. The photo on our cover was taken last year at a party for a lady who came from England to this country after WWII. Last year she finally became a U.S. citizen. Margie Bell of Ostrander Ohio fulfilled the requirements established by Congress in the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA). And in November she voted for the first time. We hope you have an enjoyable Fourth of July. Happy Birthday, America! Photo by Andy Stevens